Beach Blanket Babylon is closing for good this New Year's Eve. Catch it before it goes with this matinee and brunch at Delancy Street Restaurant.

Laugh until you cry at Beach Blanket Babylon. The show brings out the zany best at this San Francisco institution's cabaret-style musical spoof of pop culture with extravagant costumes and outrageously huge hats. It is the longest running musical revue in theater history, premiering in 1974. The revue's live band, singers, and dancers deliver sight gags and puns as they quickly change into outlandish costumes, towering wigs and oversized hats. During the finale, the show's star wears a 200 pound, 12 foot headdress showing the San Francisco skyline with rising buildings.
