Sterling Caviar - the largest U.S. caviar producer, began in 1983 with Stolt Sea Farm and later Sierra Aquafarms, pioneering sustainable sturgeon farming. By 1993, they were the first to commercially produce tank-raised sturgeon caviar. Renamed Sterling Caviar in 2006, the company operates four California farms, focusing on quality and sustainability. Acquired in 2020 by Eugene Fernandez, Sterling Caviar continues to serve discerning customers and chefs worldwide with its premium domestic caviar.
